
Leigh Dudley FCCA

Fellow of the Institute of Chartered Association of Certified Accountants (ACCA)

Profile

I have over seventeen years of experience of General Practice with a diverse range of experience, including company valuation, fraud investigation, client acquisition strategies, due-diligence and loss of profit claims.

I have lectured to others within the financial and legal sectors covering a variety of topics from both a financial accounting and financial management perspective. My seminars are often aimed at ensuring delegates gain an introduction and understanding of accounts.

Experience and Skills

I trained and qualified with a large regional firm of Chartered Accountants, obtaining a range of experience across a variety of industry sectors, with clients of differing size and structure.

I apply an analytical and methodical approach to all cases which I am involved within, ensuring reports are clearly and concisely written.

Over the past seventeen years I have undertaken a range of cases covering the following broad areas:

Business valuations

Matrimonial

Loss of profit claims

Fraud

Personal Injury and fatal accident
